Resolution #69-07
The Graduate and Professional Student Association (GPSA)
The Pennsylvania State University of the 69th Assembly

December 4, 2019

Be it decided by the Assembly of Elected Delegates,

Statement on Inclusion
In support of a more inclusive, equitable, and diverse Penn State
(Decided: [ Y / N / A ])

Nature of the Situation:
The Graduate and Professional Student Association (GPSA) strives to be diverse in membership and support diversity across the graduate and professional schools at Penn State. As outlined in our own constitution (Article IV, Section C), “The GPSA will not restrict membership based on characteristics of a student, which are intrinsic to the identity of that student. Penn State prohibits discrimination and harassment against any person because of age, ancestry, color, disability or handicap, national origin, race, religious creed, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity or veteran status.” However, this statement is not enough; we do not want to simply be non-discriminatory, we want to be inclusive and promote equity. Our organization and sponsored activities may welcome all graduate and professional students, but that does not mean all graduate and professional students feel welcomed, which presents a problem when GPSA is tasked as the voice of the entire graduate and professional student body.

We define diversity as the understanding that each individual is unique and celebrated for those individual differences. These differences can fall and intersect across race, ethnicity, ancestry, national origin, immigration status, religion, gender, marital status, sexual orientation, gender identity or expression, age, veteran status or disability. Additionally we define inclusion as the participation and engagement of diverse individuals in an organization. Initiatives around inclusion recognize the inherent worth and dignity of all individuals and work to include all into the organization's overall capacity and decision-making. Lastly, we define equity as all students having access to the resources necessary to succeed and enhance their quality of life. We recognize that equality does not necessarily equate to equity and as such we aim to promote equity among our student body.

GPSA is a governing body that allows graduate and professional students to address a variety of issues that this population faces. As members of GPSA, we are committed to cultivating a culture that is driven by our organization’s mission and values. In doing so, we ask that our members maintain a commitment to engage in efforts to enhance diversity, equity and inclusion to improve the experiences of graduate and professional students at Penn State.

As the Penn State graduate and professional student body grows increasingly diverse, diversity among GPSA membership should represent the diversity found within the constituency. The values and attributes of a diversity and inclusion focused assembly strengthen the culture of Penn State, drives innovation, and positions our organization to succeed in its mission. However we realize that diversity and equity are futile efforts without an inclusion initiative. Therefore, as we are committed to diversity we must also commit to inclusion to ensure that all of our members and constituents feel welcomed, respected and included in any official business conducted by GPSA and the organizations it affiliates with.

Many of Penn State’s peer institutions graduate and professional student associations not only have devoted entire committees to diversity and inclusivity, as has GPSA, but have also adopted explicit diversity and inclusion statements. Ohio State’s Council of Graduate Students placed emphasis on “promot[ing] equitable and fair treatment in every aspect of campus life and employment for all persons regardless of race, color, national or regional origin, sex, age, religion, veteran status, disability, and body shape or size.” Nebraska’s Graduate Student Association specifies a commitment to encouraging the participation and inclusion of LGBTQ+ and distance learning students in their graduate student association. GPSA can further strengthen our stance by adopting the statement on inclusivity proposed here and keeping our Constitution and Bylaws up-to-date with our commitment to diversity, equity, and inclusion.

This resolution is not meant to stifle discussion or hinder ideas from being brought to the floor, but is meant to make potentially invisible issues of inclusivity and equity visible and emphasize the nuances related to inclusivity.

Recommended Course of Action:

To ensure that the GPSA provides and promotes an inclusive, equitable, and diverse environment, we recommend that GPSA:

1. Prioritize diversity and inclusion in all bills.
2. Ensure that our actions align with our mission to promote a sense of community and inclusion within and among the graduate and professional student body.
3. Ensure that our governing documents reflect the goals of inclusion, equity, and diversity.

4. Commit to fostering an environment that welcomes and celebrates diversity.
